Many businesses in Lithuania are self-taught, adapting to market conditions as they grow. However, without specific knowledge of business process management, their growth potential may be limited. This is why our Master's degree program was created: to support businesses in achieving greater success by improving efficiency, reducing costs, and saving time—all while maintaining service quality and meeting stakeholder needs. As a Master's program in Business Process Management, it also enhances academic competencies, equipping graduates for potential careers in academia.

Prof. dr. Aida Mačerinskiė

The Program's Founder

Although I have been working in the field of quality management for a number of years, I joined the VU Quality Management Program due to its excellent reputation. After graduating, I can say that this program is truly exceptional: I have never seen such student-centred lecturers who genuinely care about the student's understanding as well as learning, and who adapt the program to the students' professional level. During my studies, I not only examined and deepened my theoretical knowledge, but also met experts from different industries working in the field, which really enriched the experience.
