

Intern wanted

A well-established finance analytics company is looking for a bright and ambitious intern to join the Vilnius office. A successful applicant will work with experienced financial analysts and assist in conducting financial research to evaluate trading opportunities. Candidates will be held to the highest professional standards due to the direct exposure to global financial markets and industry professionals. The clients include some of the top performing hedge funds around the world.

WE OFFER

- Extensive training and learning opportunity while working with world-renowned professionals
- Chance to get hands-on experience of the job directly linked to current projects and investment decision making
- Potential to turn an internship into full-time position
- A “start-up” feel in a small team made of young but experienced financial analysts

YOU ARE

- eager to learn
- good with numbers and Excel
- have solid academic track record
- able to tell the difference between a credit rating and a financial ratio
- willing to find the proverbial needle in a haystack
- proficient in English (both spoken and written)

Please send your CV and a brief letter of reference to: edgaras.virbickas@pelningainvesticija.com

Only the selected applicants will be contacted.

“Donald Trump is a reminder that you should apply for that job you want even if you don’t have experience.”

- The Internets